

Study Opportunities

Our Exchange programmes combine modern knowledge with tradition, offering courses in agriculture, food technology, and biosystems engineering, taught entirely in English. Students benefit from individual support, innovative teaching methods, and an inspiring academic environment.

Internships & Practical Training

We offer students the opportunity to gain hands-on experience, with access to trial fields, greenhouses, and collaborations with local farms and partners from corresponding agricultural industries.

Information for international exchange students 2025/26

The Faculty of Agriculture and Life Sciences at the University of Maribor is a modern education and research centre examining the fields of agriculture, food technology, agricultural economics and biosystems engineering. It offers students a strong link between theory and practice, innovative research opportunities and close co-operations with agricultural industries and the local community.
